

Jose Lopez

Why would anyone oppose this? Having access to shade and cooling spots in a work place not only makes for a safer work space but also shows the employees that they aren't just a number but someone the companies care for. Seems like a basic employee right. Anyone who opposes this is just in for the money and greed and probably couldn't work an hour in those fields