

Myra Lang

The air quality construction permit must be denied. Our desert — including our air! — exists in a delicate balance already impacted by climate change. To force an AI data center, and all its grievous impacts, on a community that does not want it is a grave dereliction of duty. The one thing existing data centers in multiple states have in common are the gross, "unforeseen" impacts on the environment of the nearby communities. Southern New Mexico already seeing climate-related impacts on our air quality. Please do not hasten the demise of this vibrant community.

The permit must be denied.