

Al Zhu

I am writing in vehement opposition to a data center being built. The ecological damage and likely health effects to humans both concern me deeply. Data centers consume water that our aquifers, rivers, even municipal water supplies cannot spare in a desert. The infrasound and pollution caused by data centers also harm people, including workers and the people who live nearby. I do not support this application in any way.