

Siobhan Kilbride

As the owner of a small healthcare recruiting business, I am quite concerned about the impact of the microgrid on efforts to recruit professionals to move to New Mexico. No one wants to live near one of these facilities and it will absolutely deter people from moving here. We may also lose NM professionals who chose to move out of state and away from these microgrids.

As an Albuquerque resident, I'm very concerned about the environmental and quality of life issues associated with the microgrids. We should say "no" to project Jupiter specifically and "no" to microgrids in general.