New Mexico is my home, I've lived here my whole life and is now raising my child in the same home I've loved. We have no guarantee that these data centers won't be harmless in the long run especially to our already limited water. Please don't agree to building one here, let these billionaires build one on a private island of which they probably already own. Or perhaps somewhere they can monitor and make sure like at their own neighborhood. There's no need to have such greed to get ahead technology if it means damaging our environment in the process.
