

Lara Hong

I'm only 16. i want to live in a world that isnt dying. Our summers are already hotter than they ever should have been. I want to get married to my boyfriend one day and raise my kids on a planet where I don't have to see people dying because they have no water left to drink. What will AI bring us if we're all dead. What will it do if none of us can afford to live. Why spend billions of dollars on something that will benefit no one. Not even the rich people that are funding it. They might get richer and then what. You'll die just like everyone else, because you are a homosapian. Not human because a human would have empathy which is something you clearly lack. I dont imagine that the comments will actually reach the hearts of the people that want to build these data centers, partly because of the lack of one, mainly because they only really care about getting richer, or famouse or whatever it is they want. Technology shouldn't be the source of our end. Humans are made from technology. Many philosophies are built on the homo compensator, the idea that because we as a species lack any natural talents we created our own way of surviving. But building this data centers is a death sentence. We waste water, we waste resources, we waste time and effort. If the people who are overseeing this want to actually help humanity as a whole, which includes them since we are all the same species no matter how poor or rich or white we are, then they will stop and wasting resources and money on this and help save our planet from the disasters they are trying to make worse. This isn't just something that affects a small community. It is somethings that effects all of us. Every newborn baby, every teenager every adult every elderly every plant every animal every grain of sand that makes up our beaches. If we want to achieve greatness as humanity then this is not the way. A data center shouldn't take away basic necessities we need to survive

The public should be given an additional 60 days to review and comment on the air quality permit so community members can participate equitably.

The air quality permit application should be denied outright given Bloom Energy's history of illegal dumping hazardous waste. Approving this permit would be government-sponsored environmental racism directed at residents of Doña Ana County.

If the permit is not denied outright, a public hearing needs to be held in Santa Teresa, in both English and Spanish, with an option to participate virtually.