

Kaia Spencer

Our planet matters more than your profits. Building the largest data centers on Earth isn't progress — it's a reckless gamble with the ecosystems we all depend on. Every megawatt sucked from the grid, every gallon of water boiled for cooling, every acre of land cleared for concrete — it all adds up to a future we can't afford. We don't need more infrastructure designed to serve billion-dollar corporations at the expense of clean air, clean water, and stable climate. We need leaders who put the health of this planet ahead of expansion plans. Say no to the data center buildout. Protect our land, our water, and our future.