

Fellow New Mexican

I am writing to express my disdain for Project Jupiter, which I believe offers little to no benefits for our community.

Project Jupiter, despite making claims that it won't, will likely drive up energy costs, leading to an affordability crisis, and drain New Mexico's water supply by using the same amount of water it takes to provide for a small town. It will provide short-term jobs in the form of construction, which will not be sustainable once the building is complete. It has been proven that data centers are incredibly harmful to the environment, including noise pollution, which will drive away local wildlife.

I urge the New Mexico Environment Department to reject this project.

Sincerely,
A Fellow New Mexican
