I am writing in opposition to granting the air quality permit for the proposed YGI Microgrid power generation plant. The proposed fuel cell generation system is untested at the enormous scale of this project and so the projection of impact is uncertain. However, even if the the proposed system operates at improved efficiency over conventional gas turbine systems, the overall magnitude of the project (output equal to EPE's current total output capacity) will most certainly cause an unacceptable increase of pollution in our air. Our air in Dona Ana county is already subjected to a variety of pollutants and we cannot afford to make it far worse.

Thank you.
