

Serena Jordan

Your greed eats at you faster than the earth can recuperate itself, and you fuel your greed by eating away at what's left of the earth. You're willingly poisoning your and everyone else's futures for the sake of money when it won't be there when you're dead. Even now, you have more than enough to live comfortably. From a resident of Tennessee in the United States, I ask of you, even pleading that you stop building this data center. You think that this will benefit us, but the heat/ the overall climate will take us out if this continues. I oppose this project Jupiter.
