

Anonymous Anonymous

Are we really trying to be "innovative" and "giving more job opportunities" or are we proving the one point we have been saying since it started becoming an issue? Since the start of the Industrial Revolution in the late 1700's and until now as technology advances and now suddenly Generative Artificial Intelligence started to become a trend, we are gonna be proved time and time again that our government who is MEANT to represent the people, commit MINDLESS and DUMB decisions and claiming "it's for the betterment of everyone" yet will turn a blind eye or act deaf when directly told that THOUSANDS if not nearly BILLIONS of peoples lives will be destroyed all because of a single data center that destroys our home at such a rapid rate. So were our efforts of preventing this sort of situation now completely forgotten? Are we really just mindless zombies now believing everyone single speck of what the government tells us? Do we really believe that Generative Artificial Intelligence is the next "best" invention when it's proven time and time again in THOUSANDS of reports how these data centers have destroyed our world yet we praise NASA for discovering a new "Earth" when we haven't even found a way to get there? How many times do we have to overthrow our government, destroy it, break it apart and eat it until they realize that they're not as "smart" as they think they are? How much the people have been FIGHTING for decades on end to prove their point that whatever the hell the government is doing to them, it's just going back to very beginning. Oppression, silencing voices, manipulation, violence, all just to destroy our own planet that has been proven to be the only sole planet that is able to inhabit humans yet all we do is take without thinking of the long term consequences. Project Jupiter DISGUSTS me as someone who wanted to believe our government and society would do better, yet I'm proven wrong. Again. And from history alone.