

Eliise Ugandi

We do not need new data centers. There are bigger problems than creating devices that are smart, the human brain is enough and should not be needing help on anything. And people are stupid for even using AI because all it does is use our water that we should be drinking. People need to realise that once all the water and trees are gone so are we, and every other specie. People are killing themselves by doing this and still call us the smartest species on earth.