

Kiz Romero

I do not live in New Mexico currently but I was born in New Mexico and feel very strongly about project Jupiter. I have family that still lives in New Mexico who will be affected by this project and I have compassion for the other people who live there as well. Something I've always loved about New Mexico is how it's not as industrialized as other states, the people pride and cherish their untouched land. They find richness and value in their way of living; water, clean land, clear skies, agriculture etc. The vegetation and the animals will also be affected by this which affects our ecosystem and comes back to affect us. Project Jupiter will be a parasite, on land that is already being exhausted of resources just to gain a profit. The people standing against this project care about their homes and future, not about profit. The quality of life means more. Please reject the fuel cell air quality permit.