

Teresa Tamulewicz

I strongly oppose granting this permit. New Mexico already cycles in and out of severe drought, and establishing a data center would place an enormous strain on our environment and surrounding communities. The projected levels of water consumption and fossil fuel emissions pose serious risks to our long-term ecological stability and public well-being.