

Rocio Martinez

As a resident of New Mexico I wholeheartedly disapprove of any data centers being built in this beautiful state. Though I live in northern New Mexico, the effects of air pollution and the mistreatment of our water supply affects our community greatly. I will not stand idly by while corporations try to taint our air and pollute our community with toxins. I believe in the preservation of our one and only plant earth. Our state is already known for it being almost dead last in education. Please don't let this be another negative thing we become known for. We need to at least be educated on how to keep our beautiful state free of corporations that do not care about our desert climate and those that inhabit it.