

Nicholas Danford

I'm worried about the environmental impact of the data centers. The possible adverse health effects of people in the direct area. The fact that they use more water than entire neighborhoods. The jobs are nice. But if there's no community in the area after a few years, then what was the point?