

Tory Woods

I think it is absurd to consider a desert in a water crisis as the site for a data center that uses millions of gallons of water. As a resident of Dona Ana it genuinely feels like you think we can be made a fool of, that we can be taken advantage of. To build a data center here is not putting the people of Dona Ana first. You are telling me who has lived here my entire life that I am not as important as a corporation and that is appalling.