

Anonymous Anonymous

Why trust a company that has a history of dumping hazardous waste illegally? Do they have plans to clean up waste in legal ways? This project will consume massive amounts of resources that would be better spent on the surrounding community, also protecting what natural environment there is left. If they are going to build, they should be held accountable for the environmental impacts, the hazardous byproducts their plant produces, and the health of the surrounding community. But everyone knows, included corporate executives AND local governments, that they will not hold themselves responsible for the damaging impacts they have. Do not permit them to build or submit new proposals