

Hayley Anonymous

The planet is dying, and sure, while the earth will certainly revive again- humans might not! And the younger generations are going to want to see the beauty of the world, its plants, and its creatures- anything from the smallest dandelion to the biggest rainforests- it all matters! Don't destroy the future for extra storage!