

Bryce Lopez

Placing a data center that eats water in a desert is counterintuitive and will produce more harm than good. Already data centers are proving to be damaging to the environment. Keep New Mexico clean