No AI Data centers in new mexico. I know the fact that it will bring jobs here is what's up for debate but look at the water crisis. While we're at it, quit allowing car wash places to pop up all over the place. What's going to happen when 2 years after the data center is done we've got no more water to give? Then what? Who will take responsibility for that? Does it look like we're going to get more water based on the environment? no in fact we'll probably get less every year. Less snowfall, less rain, less water. No AI Data centers in new mexico.
