

Nicole Bellin

The health of the people in our country should be held higher than the desire to build a data center to power unnecessary AI. There is no reason to sacrifice the lives of countless people just to have more data centers on this planet. AI is ruining job opportunities for people, people's health, the environment, the sanctity of art and creation, the safety of people and children, and everyone's right to privacy. The negative effects that AI and giant data centers are bringing infinitely weight out the potential sliver of good that it may or may not bring.