

anonymous anonymous

It's always being talked about how we need to focus on the climate and help the earth. Then why build such an enormous Ai data center, where you'll ruin forest, rivers and wild life? Time and time again it's being told how bad ai is, and how bad it is for the environment, so why go through with this? I'm sure you're aware of the consequences, yet the money is somehow worth more. We don't need ai data centers, we don't need projects like this. We need to think about the climate, and what we can do to help it, because right now we're just destroying the earth. I think the public should be given an additional 60 days to review and comment on the air quality permit so community members can participate equitably and if the permit is not denied, a public hearing needs to be held in Santa Teresa, in both English and Spanish, with an option to participate virtually.