

Aaron Mullennix

Good morning. I want to express my concern over giving an air permit to a data center. I believe it provides too high a risk to the environment. We've seen far too many data centers with issues regarding sound pollution with peaks being up in the upper 60dB going non stop day and night. We do not need a data center for this reason and also concerns about their water input and output. I don't want our water being evaporated at high amounts and neither do I want it pumped back out to the Rio at high temperatures. Please do not support this. Please let us be good stewards.