

Sara Rhodes

New Mexico state is beautiful. It's a sunny desert which supports so many ecosystems and people. But it is fragile. It already doesn't rain enough. There are frequent black outs. And this will somehow not exasperate these problems?

So many other data centers have ruined other environments. We cannot allow for New Mexico to be ruined as well.

Do not allow this data center, or any other data center to start construction in this state. Ever. We need to prioritize the environment and people over data centers