

Nokubonga N

This project is bad for the environment. The greenhouse gases it emits will not help climate change and global warming. We want a future for the following generation and the current one as well. It will not benefit anyone except the rich as they keep getting richer. As it is being built close by to a school the health concerns are huge. It could lead to many injuries and deaths from the gases that are emitted. As well a data centre requires water to cool it down. Scientists are telling us that water is being a scarce resource so using 1 million gallons of water per day isn't okay. Around 2 billion people in the world don't have access to clean drinking water and wasting it on something we don't need and haven't asked for is useless and quite wasteful. The ozone layer is just recovering from our doing putting more greenhouse gases into the atmosphere will back track out work.