

Jade Rodriguez

No matter how it is presented to the people, this project should not continue. It is an environmental hazard for a state that already has limited water and less than ideal national air standards, with air pollution already having been affecting the ways of life for all of those who live in New Mexico. Look at Colorados data center, who are suing the state for not enough water to fuel the center meanwhile people who live there have been forced to accept dirty and polluted water since all the clean water is being taken to keep their data center going. These projects are not necessary but selfish cruel, and utterly useless as the money going into the destruction of public land and architecture of the center, to the system of fueling could all be going to other more useful and necessary things, such as homelessness, education for all citizens regardless of age and gender, and lowering rent prices so the people of the United States could live without fear for their future. That is what the government should be investing in, not AI that is of no need to the public. Stop Project Jupiter.