

Miranda Jaquez

New Mexico already experiences severe droughts, a data center would only increase problems like this. Our state has already been abused for its uninhabited lands. The people that live here do not want to deal with the problems that a data center will bring into our communities.