Hello,

I am concerned with the construction of this type of center in general. But given the access to funding the Parent company Bloom energy has, it calls into question the ease of accessing a lot of information regarding the companies actual reputation. With some stating Bloom has a history of lying or misleading investors. When initially looking into this The main articles shown are by Bloom themselves. Which is ironic since the work in tantrum with an AI company. How do we know are real rep. has provided an informed response or a simple AI prompt response. All this too say if the claims of Bloom lying about emissions and mismanagement of funding prove to be true, us as New Mexicans will experience nothing but damage to our environments and economy by this construction.
