

Stephanie Hilliard

Data centers are blight to nature and people. They do not benefit the local communities in employment. They are a massive drain on resources and an environmental hazard we do not want or need. My health is already compromised enough as is. I do not need further threats to my health in the form of a data center.