

Sam Butler

I would like to remain living in NM and I worry this project will push our state over the edge into the climate disaster. We should be pulling our resources together to solve for the climate crisis, not line the pockets of billionaires who do not care about our communities. We have a limited amount of time before it gets extremely hard to live. We need to act accordingly. Those who choose to push this project forward, will have blood on their hands. And our communities won't forget.
