I am a physician and am worried about the environmental damage that will be incurred by Project Jupiter that will not be limited to the people in Dona Ana County but will extend much further. The project developers are trying to address this by shifting to natural gas fuel cells and a contained water system. However there will be significant heat generated and other projects deal with this by using large fans to get rid of the heat, which produces noise and heat pollution. I have not heard the developers address this problem.
