I don't understand why you want to fast track boiling and destroying the earth if it means you won't be around in 10 years to enjoy the money. If you aren't 100% certain all will be okay as a result of building someone, why even consider it? Have some humanity. Do the right thing. You know New Mexico needs an additional 60 days thinking time. This decision is permanent, an irrational uninformed decision is the last thing we need. You know giving bloom the permit environmental racism sponsored by the government. Doña Ana County has been polluted enough and you think doing this will fly under the radar due to your systematically enforced prejudice, and that's disgusting. At least give it a public hearing, if not, you may as well just dump hazardous waste all over the country. Oh wait, Bloom has already done that. Please, for the love of our planet.
