The word drought has been around too often. I'm 29 and I've heard that word since I can remember. Why destroy the beauty our state the minimal amount of environmental encroachment.

New Mexico does not have the water to keep any data centers cool with the little water we have.

The places our state has people visiting specifically NPS areas are going to decline because there will be no water and once the water is gone it's a snowball effect from there.

That's only the environmental impact. There's the people, the animals, and the air.
