The obsession and violent thirst that companies have developed to destroying our planet is really getting out of hand. It is so devastating and infuriating how we— the younger generations are the only reliable ones to take matters into our own hands when it comes to caring about the ONLY planet we know of that we can exist on without any equipment. The ONLY PLANET that humans and different other ecosystems have existed on for BILLIONS of years. Hoping this project ends up getting abandoned, shame on every supporter of this self destructive 'invention'. The future of mankind is more important than your green printed bills.
