I am deeply opposed to this permit being approved. If anyone in the NMED has studied, researched or read anything related to environmental sciences, you would also be opposed.

Our resources are precious and it is important we all come together now to do the hard work to protect them, before it is too late. Doña Ana county already has some of poorest air quality ranked nationally in regard to prolonged exposure to pollution and increased cases of respiratory issues such as asthma and pneumonia, as a result.

I hope my comment along with others from the community will be considered before profit and the progression of a technology that just like others before it will likely be obsolete, but not before the damage is already done. Our air and land, our environment, are the real commodities here. Some already know this and are willing and ready to take advantage of those who have not yet figured out. All the best.
