There is no need for data centers especially here where we are known for our clean air and famously big droughts. There is also no future in AI (Generative) the reason generative AI has gotten so popular is not because people love it it has been forced at people to the point that they are tired and now finding alternatives. Why should our community bet everything in AI, including our bodies and homes into a failing state project. Technology is amazing and fun for humanity but when it starts to take away from people's natural life qualities given to every living thing on this planet, it's no longer a helpful tool, it's a death sentence.
