

Emma Carpio

The demand for a data center was and is not needed for the city that resides in New Mexico. Data centers use up a ton of clean water and leaves the residents with the murkiest and most undrinkable water because of a single use prompt someone decides to put in because they're too lazy to even look it up on google. There is no need for. You are killing everything and everyone. Time will be too late for you to realize unfortunately and you will have suffered the same.