

Paul Stokes

Until data centers, including this one, show that they do not use significant amounts of water, and they are powered by renewable energy, they should not receive permits.