

Anonymous Anonymous

I have no idea how to write a public comment, as i've never written one before. However, project Jupiter will most likely affect my life too, even if im not a resident of the USA, so i feel like i have to try and do something about it. In fact, projects like this will most likely affect the whole world. And this won't be the last project like this, people are greedy and are going to ask for more the second they get bored of their last project. I kindly ask for the government to not let this project go through. I'm still in highschool, and i already feel like my future is being taken away from me. Drilling in places like this will just make climate change come faster, and that will raise the temperatures around the whole world, making the water level and food prices rise, and bring many species to the brink of extinction. I feel helpless and useless since there is not much that i can do, being under 18 and from a different country, not having even graduated yet. Please, save the future of the next generations, and don't let project Juniper go through. Thank you.