

Leslie Zane

This proposal will desecrate land, use up to one million gallons of water in a drought afflicted state, will add a windowless huge box in land that has been unfettered for 1000s of years. And for what? Seriously, for what? So tech billionaires can make more money off the backs of poor people in poor states. And what about the cost of running these places - those costs go on to the local people. It's disgusting - with no foresight into the future. It's immediate reward for those who are anti environment, anti climate change and anti humanity. Enough is enough and shut this idea down!