

anonymous anonymous

our government is taking away the natural resources that we have on this one of a kind planet. they're making the wildlife hurt more than ever. they're making water less available. and now all they want is a big data center just to add more junk into people heads. the minute this planet ends up not being suitable enough for people. we're gone. money isn't gonna matter. data centers won't matter. it's the people and the animals who will be the ones struggling. we're hurting ourselves by doing this just because these fancy businessmen want to be trillionaires when in reality they're doing nothing to help stop world starvation or children who don't have to funds to learn anything. they're using it all for their greedy selves.