

Kyrie Greathouse

I would be in support if an independent third party could prove the water claims and usage projections around the project to be accurate.

I'm currently not in support because it sounds like a wish and not something with a basis in the reality of current water and energy usages for other data centers.

Sincerely,