

E'najha Johnson

The world is already in a global water crisis, this big of a data center would definitely push us to breaking point.