

Holly Potter

New Mexico does not need a data center. Project Jupiter is already preying on our community, offering them $25/hr to spread misinformation about the true agenda of this proposed project, under the guise of an "improvement." I was approached by a representative canvassing for signatures and asked if I wanted to sign "to improve water quality in New Mexico." I fail to see how a data center that will divert mass amounts of water will improve anything at all in a state that is already experiencing an extremely dry season and fires. The Rio Grande has been dry for months and it seems every week I am being served ads from the state asking me to reduce my water consumption, so they already know we can't afford to divert any more of our water supply. Please do not sell out the people of New Mexico for a profit, which the actual working families will not see a fraction of. If you respect the land, the people, and the wildlife of this state, I implore you to reject this petition and keep Project Jupiter out of our state entirely.