

na na

I ask you to deny Yucca's infrastructure air quality permit. Giving this permit can cause so much damage to the people and animals that live there. Pollution will also cause massive environmental changes to them with heat waves already being a problem. Adding 10 million tons of carbon dioxide pollution and a vague estimate of toxic emissions to an active and long-time nonattainment zone would be basically turning a blind eye on the people and animals. Doing this can promote even more ground level ozone. Why put so much effort into a huge data center that would ruin the environment and other people's lives? I ask you to deny Yucca's growth infrastructure air quality permit because trading lives for 'building the better future' will end you in a future of contamination and regret.