

Anna Sterling

Please do not accept this permit. I do not live in New Mexico, but I know that if this was happening to me, I would fight tooth and nail to make it stop. This plant would be detrimental to the surrounding communities. What they need right now is less pollution, not even more of it. This plant would take up copious amounts of water and make the environment heavily polluted, more than it already is. We all know that this big corporation is not going to be trying their hardest to stop or manage anything. They do not care about the human lives just trying to live. What they care about is making money. Deny the permit. If you really care about the people and environment you're meant to protect, then you will deny the permit. If you don't really care then I hope you like heavy metals and toxic gass polluting the only planet we have.