No proposed projects that would use massive amounts of water should ever be considered in New Mexico, not to mention all of the other ways this would be disastrous for NM. Albuquerque was just listed as one of the worst areas for air quality, and now this project is being proposed for southern NM? This project is clearly trying to pull and bait and switch. You have the power to stop it before it's too late. Have some foresight and some dignity. Don't be duped into selling out NM.
