

Richard Miller

I think that dependant on the application of data centers they can be useful for creating jobs, however if data centers store privacy data or utilize AI using personal information it can be problematic.