

Troy Flores

I don't think we need a data center in a rural area which relies heavily on agriculture and culture itself. Whatever "benefits" they plan to bring sound like empty politician promises and a deal with the devil. Dona ana needs something that offers more substance than what they propose.